Oil Leaked Into Hudson River After Fire at Nuclear Reactor Near NYC

(Reuters) Oil leaked into the Hudson River on Sunday after a transformer fire and explosion a day earlier at the Indian Point nuclear plant north of New York City, and Governor Andrew Cuomo said he was concerned about environmental damage. Cuomo visited the plant for a briefing on Sunday. The governor, who in the past has called for the plant to be shut down because of its proximity to densely populated New York City, also visited the plant on Saturday. When the transformer exploded, it released oil into a holding tank, which then overflowed, sending oil onto the ground and into the river, Cuomo told reporters on Sunday after he was briefed by emergency and plant officials. He said crews were working to contain and clean up the oil spill but it was not clear yet how much oil had been released. The transformer explosion and fire at the nuclear power reactor 40 miles (65 km) north of New York City was quickly put out. The fire triggered the closure of the plant's Unit 3 reactor, while the other Unit 2 reactor continued to operate.

Storms Kill Two in Arkansas, Tear up Texas Town

(CNN) Two people were killed when a storm hit a trailer park in Nashville, Arkansas, Howard County Emergency Management coordinator Sonny Raulerson said Monday. There had been a tornado warning in the area. Also, a fierce storm injured at least 26 people and caused significant destruction late Sunday in the Texas town of Van, officials said. The National Weather Service had issued a tornado warning in the area. Warning sirens sounded before the storm hit Van. Fire Marshall Chuck Allen said early Monday that everyone had been accounted for and that there were no deaths in the town. The destruction in Van followed the death of one person a day earlier in Eastland County, Texas. Those injured in Van were taken to area hospitals, Allen said. About a third of the town was damaged, he estimated. The Red Cross is helping emergency officials and setting up a shelter at the First Baptist Church. Teams on foot and on ATVs were rescuing the walking wounded, and a triage area was set up at the church.

Typhoon Noul Hits the Philippines Forcing Evacuations

(BBC News) A powerful typhoon has hit the north-east Philippines, in Cagayan province, killing two people and cutting electricity supplies to many parts of the region. Warnings of flash floods, landslides and storm surges forced thousands of people to higher ground. Noul is the strongest storm to hit the Philippines so far this year. The storm, with wind speeds of 220km/h (137mph), is expected to move towards Taiwan and Japan on Tuesday. Two men were electrocuted on Sunday while fixing the roof of their house in Aparri town. However, authorities said they did not expect high casualty numbers as most people had followed evacuation orders. Typhoon Noul, locally called Dodong, made landfall on Sunday in Cagayan province, about 400km (250 miles) north of the capital Manila, downing trees and damaging houses.

1,600 Rohingyas, Others Land in Indonesia and Malaysia

(AP) About 1,600 Rohingya and Bangladeshi refugees have landed illegally in Malaysia and Indonesia in the last two days, apparently after human traffickers abandoned their virtual prison ships and left them to fend for themselves, officials said Monday. One group of about 600 people arrived in the Indonesian coastal province of Aceh on four boats on Sunday, and at about the same time a total of 1,018 landed in three boats on the northern resort island of Langkawi. The Rohingyas, who are Muslim, have for decades suffered from state-sanctioned discrimination in Buddhist-majority Myanmar, which considers them illegal settlers from Bangladesh. Attacks on the Rohingyas by Buddhist mobs in the last three years have sparked an exodus to nearby countries. An estimated 7,000 to 8,000 people are now being held in large and small ships in the Malacca Strait and nearby international waters, said Chris Lewa, director of the Arakan Project, which has monitored the movements of Rohingya for more than a decade. She added that crackdowns on trafficking syndicates in Thailand and Malaysia have prevented brokers from bringing them to shore.

San Mateo Bridge Closure

- The San Mateo Bridge reopened at approximately 0420 hours this morning, 05/11/15.
- Additionally, a second closure is scheduled from 2200 hours on Friday, 05/22/15, through 0500 hours on Monday, 05/25/15 (Memorial Day weekend).
- Drivers are being asked to use the Dumbarton, Bay Bridge or Highway 237 as alternate routes. The agency says crews will use the closure to resurface the entire span of the bridge and replace expansion joints. Electrical cables and transformers will also be replaced. The closure could impact travel to several major Bay Area events, including the Bay to Breakers on 05/17/15.
- For more information and updates on the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge project, drivers can visit www.dot.ca.gov/dist4/projects2/sanmateobridge/

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

An upper level trough will move over northwest California and remain in place for the next week. Showers and isolated thunderstorms will be possible over interior northwest California each afternoon and evening. Some showers may impact coastal areas mid to late week.

Medford Weather:

An upper low approaching from the Pacific will bring more widespread showers to west side areas today with isolated thunderstorms forecast from the Cascades to the east side. Today will be much cooler with many inland area high temperatures 15 to 20 degrees lower. Moderate to heavy showers are expected throughout the forecast area on Tuesday with snow levels around 5000 feet. Showers are expected to gradually decrease Tuesday night as the upper low weakens and moves north.

Reno Weather:

Low pressure off the Pacific Northwest coast will drop into Northern California and southern Oregon on Tuesday. The low will bring cooler temperatures and gusty winds, along with chances for showers and thunderstorms north of Interstate 80. Another system will move into California and Nevada late Thursday into the weekend bringing the chance for more showers and thunderstorms.

San Francisco Weather:

Partly to mostly cloudy with near to below normal temperatures today though Wednesday across the Bay Area. By Thursday, a front will approach with a chance of some light rainfall across the region that could linger into Friday. Dry weather likely returns next weekend but the pattern remains cool with an upper trough persisting along the West Coast.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

Cooler and more unsettled conditions expected this week across the interior of Northern California as several weather systems affect the region.

Hanford Weather:

Dry weather and warmer temperatures forecast through today as a ridge of high pressure remains in central California. Afterward, a trough of low pressure will move over Northern California and is expected to begin a cooling trend for the next few days. Another low pressure system will bring a chance of precipitation to the region by late in the week.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

A cooling trend and an increase in marine layer cloud coverage are expected early this week as a trough of low pressure develops. A stronger low pressure system may bring a chance of rain for late in the week. Cool weather will likely continue into next weekend.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Fair and seasonal weather is expected the next few days with low clouds and fog near the coast each night and morning. Low pressure to our north will help deepen the marine layer and extend the low clouds farther inland each night. A storm is possible by Friday with gusty winds and showers, followed by fair weather over the weekend.

Southeast California Weather:

Weak high pressure will bring near normal temperatures with plenty of sunshine through Thursday across the Desert Southwest. Another unseasonably cool low pressure system will affect the region late Thursday through Saturday ushering in much cooler temperatures, breezy conditions, and chances for rain.
